Write a Letter to Santa – in Braille

LANCASTER, Penna. (Nov. 16, 2022) – Children are invited to use Braille to write a letter to Santa – and send it to VisionCorps. They will receive a reply from Santa – also in Braille (because Santa knows Braille, it’s one of his many talents!).

This is a fun way to practice using Braille! Children will write their letters and then receive a letter back that they will be able to read.

VisionCorps’ chief elf, Erika, will retrieve the letters and work with Santa to respond, in Braille, to each letter writer.

What: A New Way to Write Letters to Santa -- Send letters to:

Letters to Santa (Erika Rothermel, head elf)
VisionCorps
244 N. Queen St.
Lancaster, PA. 17603

When: Beginning Nov. 25, 2022, and continuing throughout the holiday season

Who: Children who are blind from South Central Pennsylvania – and across the globe!

Why: Writing letters to Santa is a long tradition. Children who are blind can now also send a personal letter.

How: Santa has a special elf (Erika) who taught him how to read and write Braille. Santa will read the letters and respond to each child.
